Professional Research Experience

Research Associate, Project Teal, Institute for Policy Research, Northwestern University, 2010-2012

Funded by the American Bisexuality Institute and the Northwestern University Sexual Orientation and Sexuality Endowment, PI: Héctor Carrillo.

Duties: I conducted in-depth interviews as part of a four-person research team examining sexual identities and behaviors of 100 heterosexual-identified men ages 18-70 who experience attraction for or engage in sex with other men, as well as 40 male and female partners of heterosexual-identified men who have sex with men. As part of the research team I was responsible for conducting interviews, developing codebooks, coding interviews, and drafting academic papers based on interview data.
